Sam Teague serves as the Director of Membership for the eQRP. He is passionate about helping eQRP members gain control over their own finances to invest in projects that they understand and are passionate about themselves. Sam played baseball at Samford University in Birmingham, Alabama where he laid the foundation of a background in Sports Sponsorship before finding a passion for finance during his time in the MBA program at Samford. Since then, he has brought his experience as a corporate employee, business owner, and passive investor to the eQRP to enhance the member experience from the first introduction to the eQRP System to the ongoing relationship and coaching. At any point, you can most likely find Sam with his wife and daughter involved with an event at his wife's gym where she is a personal trainer, Iron Tribe, in a tree stand, or taking his dog on hikes around Birmingham.
